"Has none but this foreigner returned to give thanks to God?" LUKE 17:18

Most of us live relatively "easy" lives. We have food, shelter, clothing and money. We go on vacation every year and own a car or two. Most of us take this all for granted. Did you ever notice that people with the least amount of possessions are usually the most grateful? Shouldn't this be the other way around? Take time every day and thank God for all He has given you and discern how He is calling you to share your gifts.

PASTOR'S CORNER

Sixty years ago this month, the world stood teetering on the razor's edge between absolute annihilation and wondrous hope. Fr. Kevin was five years old.

First, the annihilation. On October 14, 1962, a Sunday, Colonel Steve Heyser, flying a U-2 spyplane over the west coast of Cuba, over a town called San Cristobel, took 928 pictures. The pictures would reveal that four mobile Soviet missile launchers, capable of firing the SS-4 medium range nuclear missile, had been placed in western Cuba. Other flights would eventually locate 42 nuclear missiles at ten sites in Cuba. Two days later, National Security Adviser McGeorge Bundy then woke up President Kennedy to advise him that missiles were in Cuba but were not yet operational. Kennedy ordered 17 military, political and diplomatic advisers, the ExComm, to assemble at the White House at 11:50 a.m. Two days after that, on October 18, a Thursday, U.S. President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk met at the White House with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Soviet Ambassador to the U.S. Anatoly Dobrynin. The Russians had some "splainin'" to do. Gromyko told Kennedy that Soviet operations in Cuba were purely defensive, and Kennedy did not tell Gromyko that the U.S. had discovered that the Soviets had nuclear missiles in Cuba. President Kennedy met with the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the next day, Friday October 19th, to discuss the military options for responding to the missiles in Cuba. USAF Chief Of Staff General Curtis Lemay advocated bombing of the missile sites in Cuba. It is the closest that the world had ever been to all out, full blown, "Katie bar the door", thermonuclear holocaust.

Meanwhile, at the Vatican...

...a totally different type of showdown was taking place. Sixty years ago, the Second Vatican Council, Vatican II, opened for business. Three years earlier, at St. Paul's Outside the Walls, Pope John XXIII stunned the Church by calling for a council. He was supposed to be a "caretaker" Pope, one who would just smile, keep things the way they are and then die so that someone else could take over. But John, though he loved to smile, had other ideas. He wanted to open the windows of the Church and let the fresh air in. He convened the council and did things that no other Popes did, he wanted women and laypeople to take part. He wanted Christians from other denominations: Protestant and Eastern Orthodox alike to take part. You see John was not your typical Pope. It was said that he would actually sneak out of the Vatican at night and wander around the streets of Rome. That is where he got the nickname "Johnny Walker." So when he said he wanted a council, he meant it. As one bishop said: "this holy old boy doesn't realize what a hornet's nest he's stirring up".

The powers that be at the Vatican had others ideas. If the Pope wanted a Council, we will give him a council. But we will stack the commissions with our guys, with our ideas. We will meet, shuffle some papers, celebrate a Mass or two, go home and have business as usual. On the second day of Vatican II, the day's agenda included the election for members of the ten commissions. They were expected to do most of the work of the Council. The Curia was heavily represented, and they would be confirmed as the majorities on the commissions. Not so fast, boys!! A French Cardinal Achille Liénart addressed the Council, saying that the bishops could not intelligently vote for strangers. He asked that the vote be postponed to give all the bishops a chance to draw up their own lists. The vote was postponed. The very first meeting of the Council adjourned after only fifteen minutes. Business would eventually be done, but it definitely would not be "as usual."

We all know what happened. The Church changed, and changed radically. If a Catholic from the 1930's were to be plopped down into a parish today, he or she would hardly recognize it. And I for one will go on record as saying, "GOOD!" Everything changed. How we celebrate at Mass, how we think about prayer, how we think about ourselves, how we think about other faiths, how we approach the poor, how we approach the world. There are some who regret Vatican II, but I would hate to think where we would be without it. I for one probably would not be a priest. The pendulum swings back a little, but the Church is better for what we experience.

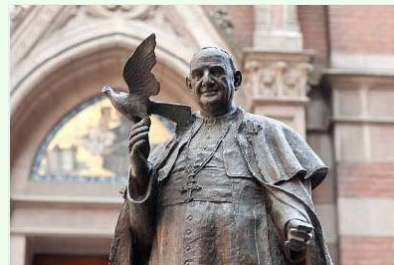

The legacy that Pope John left us gives us the wherewithal to face the issues of our day with courage and faith. It is ironic that the moment of the greatest crisis in the world was also the moment of the greatest promise of the modern Church. He proclaimed hope when others only saw despair. As he once said: Consult not your fears but your hopes and your dreams. Think not about your frustrations, but about your unfulfilled potential. Concern yourself not with what you tried and failed in, but with what it is still possible for you to do.

And now today, with a new threat of nuclear war between Russia and the Ukraine, and our Archdiocese doing some radical strategic planning of its own, it is easy to give in to despair.

Until we remember Good Pope John.

We celebrate his feast day on Tuesday.

St. John XXIII, pray for us.

Father Kevin

Harry Hosey School has a school-lunch program

Haiti's school system is dominated by the non-public sector, whether for-profit, faith-based or run by non-governmental organizations. Roughly 90% of primary schools are non-public, enrolling more than 80% of all primary school children.

Harry Hosey School, near St. Jean du Sud, was started years ago by pastor Fr. Jacqueline to provide schooling for children whose families couldn't otherwise afford to send them to school. The enrollment at Harry Hosey School numbers around 200 students, K-6. Eight sponsoring families in St. Louis provide the generous donations needed to support the seven teachers as well as the principal of Harry Hosey School, at an annual cost of ~$11,700.

Like many other facets of Haitian society, food insecurity has a big impact on education. Children come to school hungry and struggle to focus in class. Our Haiti committee has wrestled with this problem, knowing that we don't have the resources to fund a school lunch program for so many students. In a new development this year, thanks to the efforts of pastor Fr. Clody, Harry Hosey School was selected to participate in a "school lunch" program supported by the government Bureau of Nutritional Development (BND). The BND provides the food, Harry Hosey provides the kitchen facility, and Holy Redeemer pays the cooking staff salaries. Like the initiatives in clean water and subsidized medical care, this initiative is a good example of how we try to leverage existing resources in Haiti for the betterment of our twinned parish.

Our $1500 of support leverages >$30K in food assistance. This program will continue for the 2022 - 2023 school year.

Clean water is the foundation for health and food security in Haiti

In collaboration with Water With Blessings, the Holy Redeemer Haiti Committee sponsored a large village-to-village clean water mission in April-May 2022 to promote point-of-use Sawyer water filters and community education in water sanitation. WWB is a Louisville-based organization that operates in several developing countries, collaborating with local communities to improve access to clean water. Previously, we engaged with WWB to conduct our own small-scale clean water missions to train 180 "Water Women" in the use and maintenance of these durable water filters. Impressed with the hospitality and grass-roots organizing in St. Jean, WWB approached us about a large village-to-village campaign in the St Jean du Sud region, offering to pay for the filters and training if the HR Haiti Mission would cover the room & board for the trainers over a six-week period. Our successful 2021 Lenten Offering enabled that to happen. As a result, over 2700 water women were trained, equipped with the filtration equipment, and commissioned to share their filter with at least three other families. With an average family size of 5-6 people, this initiative has the potential to provide clean water access to ~60,000 people, many of them children who suffer greatly from water-borne illnesses. Surveys taken 3-4 months after the mission indicate lower levels of gastro-intestinal illnesses. This is a remarkable development for the communities in and around St. Jean du Sud and highlights the value of collaboration: for our ~$12,000 investment, we were able to provide training and filters worth >$162,000. A poster in the back of church provides an overview of the water mission.
