"Go forth from the land of your kinsfolk and from your father's house to a land that I will show you." GENESIS 12:1

God calls all of us to leave behind our old ways and to follow Him, placing our complete trust in Him. Some of the old ways that we struggle to leave behind might be materialism, selfishness and greed. Yet, God promises to show us a new land and a better way to live. Remember what St. Teresa of Calcutta said, "God does not call us to be successful, God calls us to be faithful."

PASTOR'S CORNER

They also serve...

Whenever I called the office the greeting was the same: "Hello Jerry, this is your problem child."

I would then regale him with my sorry tales of procrastination, difficulty and woe. And the end result was always the same: he saved my tuckus. (Can I use that word in a bulletin?) If I had his job, I would have gotten frustrated with my calls. "Really Kevin? Again?" But he was always kind and understanding and, like I said, got me out of some thorny situations. Two stories pop into mind.

The names are withheld to protect the guilty.

Story One: I was asked by two of my former students to do their wedding, which I accepted with joy. The only problem was that the church in which they were to wed was not a parish church anymore. It was an old historical building with lots of great memories. In order to validly do the wedding there I had to get permission of the proper pastor, in whose boundaries the physical structure of the church resided. Normally, this would not have been an issue. I had performed a wedding at this particular church years before and I simply asked the pastor to sign off on the documents. This time was different. Different year, different pastor. When I called the pastor for permission, he refused. "I will have nothing to do with that place!" he bellowed. "Whaaat?" I asked. "But Father, I need this for the wedding to take place." "NO," he roared. Click. My first call was to a priest friend who also was a canon lawyer. (This is a good thing to have.) "Well," he told me, "presume you have permission." "Works for me!" And the wedding went on as scheduled. That is until three months later when I got a call from the Vicar for Canonical Affairs, Jerry. At first, he was a bit abrupt. "You did a wedding without permission from the proper pastor?" It is then that I told him about how I tried to do the responsible thing (it happens on occasion) and was rebuffed. This time, the problem child did the right thing. His tone changed and he told me that he understood and that it would be fine. I was glad that I didn't have to tell a couple that I had to do their wedding all over again.

Story Two: (This one was more my fault.) I get weddings from all over. One year I actually was responsible for 35 weddings. One couple, who had been to a previous wedding of mine, liked me (go figure) and asked me to do their wedding down at College Church. No problem, I thought. Well...there were some problems. First of all, they lived out of town. OK. I've done that before. Not an issue. Second, the groom was not only non-Catholic, but he had never been baptized in any denomination. Once again, been there, done that, no issue. But the big problem was that the bride's parents no longer resided in the Archdiocese of St. Louis. It would take too long to explain why this is an issue, but, needless to say, it was. Once again, this time I sought permission from a proper pastor, but this one was in Brooklyn, NY and, long story short, he adamantly refused to help me out. (I did have many pleasant and friendly discussions with his secretary and we practically became best friends.) Now there was an issue, and there was a possibility that the wedding might not take place. I REALLY hate to do that to people. I called Jerry and asked for an appointment. It was that serious. With 24 hours to go before the ceremony, we did some Canon Law tap dancing (once again, a bit involved, but it is all legal) and the wedding went off without a hitch. Tuckus saved.

Monsignor Jerry Billing is a great priest. As you can see, he helped me out of some big jams. Many people would look at his ministry and think that all he did was push papers and sign off on documents. But they would be wrong. He was a pastor to us priests and he has helped many of us do the ministry for which we were ordained. (Jerry once told me that I was far from his most problematic priest – how scary is that?!)

There are two reasons why I wanted to write about Jerry this weekend. First of all, he is ailing now. He is very sick and this absence has left a gaping abyss at the Catholic Center. Please keep this great priest in your prayers.

Second, Jerry's service to the church is a reminder that there a multitude of ways to serve God's people. And though it seems like a simple administrative duty, what Jerry did for the Archdiocese, for his brother priests, for me, was not only valuable but essential.

They also serve...who help the problem child.

St. Vincent de Paul News!

Thanks to the enormous generosity of our parishioners, our St. Vincent de Paul conference was able to provide the means for the neighbors we've served this year to have Thanksgiving and Christmas meals and other benefits for their families this holiday season.

We also helped a family who tragically lost their home and two family members in a fire, and they have moved into a new home with the financial support your generosity enabled.

Knowing our neighbors have faced higher costs for food, lodging and transportation, our parishioners opened their hearts and rose to the occasion and far beyond, and we want to express our deep appreciation. If you know of anyone who needs assistance, please have them call our hotline at 314-289-6101, mailbox 2250.

Lenten Offering: Making Haiti Green Again

This year's Lenten Offering will support an initiative by the Smallholder Farmers Alliance to promote reforestation and sustainable agriculture in St. Jean du Sud, our twinned parish. The goal of the 5-year program is to improve food production and to plant 75,000 trees, most of them fruit and nut trees, to help stabilize the soil and provide an additional source of income for the 400 participating farmers. In exchange for planting and caring for the trees, farmers receive farming tools, high-quality black bean and pigeon pea seeds, training in sustainable farming practices, and access to a seed bank cooperative. Additional information can be found in the back of the church. Donations can be made by check to Holy Redeemer (write Lenten Offering on the check) at 17 Joy Avenue, Webster Groves, MO 63119 or by using this QR code for online giving:
